

Kids Music Planet Podcast

Dear Artist/Representative:

Thank you for submitting your music to the Kids Music Planet Podcast! My husband and I put long hours into this podcast for a reason: we love children's music and we want to help it continue to grow and blossom into a mainstream genre! Thanks for helping us do that!

Kids Music Planet will never own your content. All we ask is that you sign a permissions agreement allowing us to incorporate your songs as part of our podcast, which we will promote and distribute to the public. Let me explain a bit about our permission agreement. We do not currently hold a license through SoundExchange or any of the PROs (BMI, ASCAP, etc.) that will allow us to legally podcast copyrighted music. That means we need to get your permission directly, in order to promote and help to sell your music on the podcast!

On the agreement, Point #1 gives us permission to use song clips. We mix these in as we talk about the CD, giving our listeners a taste of your music. If your CD is featured, we will mention things we like about the songs and play short clips from most of them. Your CD will be presented in a very positive light. If we don't love it, we simply won't review it. Occasionally we will feature more than one CD so fewer song clips per CD will be used.

Point #2 gives us permission to use up to three complete songs per CD overall (only one per episode). In each episode our 8 year old daughter, Evalyn picks one song which we play in its entirety. Her choice is her own and she may choose from any CD submitted, even those we have declined to review. Again, we always present her choice in a very positive light. From time to time we also use complete songs from several CDs for a special edition themed podcast .

Point #3 simply describes how your songs will be distributed as part of the show, i.e. they will be downloaded as part of a podcast. To cover future possibilities we've included other forms of broadcasting as well - we envision a day when the show is rebroadcast by other media bringing it an even wider audience. We also make it clear that there is no time limit to the use of your songs - once a podcast is posted online we plan to leave it there indefinitely so that as our audience grows, new listeners can hear all the old editions.

My husband, Monty is a children's recording artist also, so we definitely understand your concerns about copyright and sales. It is our firm belief and sincere hope and intention that our use of your music will bring you many new customers. We include purchasing links in our show notes so listeners can easily buy your music from select retailers.

Please complete, sign and return the Permissions Agreement and Submission Form (attached) to the mailing address below, along with your physical CD.

Feel free to contact me with any questions or concerns. I'll be happy to address them.

Sincerely yours,

Lisa Harper, host
